Pushing Paper Into the Past

A medical manufacturer needed a more efficient way for their field force to perform routine inspections on a complex surgical device. The device has hundreds of parts, and its condition needs to be checked and documented every six months.

The field reps were using paper forms for these inspections, which made the whole process of data collection, ingestion and analysis highly inefficient. The company knew it needed a more streamlined workflow, but didn't want to overspend on a custom mobile solution or on a software suite full of features they didn't need or want.

The Formyula for success

A custom build of Formyula turned out to be just what the doctor ordered.

After close collaboration with the customer, we leveraged the power of our platform to create a new inspection app—one that allows field reps to quickly input inspection data on a mobile iOS device, eliminating the time and tedium associated with using paper. This data then seamlessly flows into a single repository, where it's immediately available for analysis by the management team.

All the power, half the cost

The customer got everything they needed: a customized and company-branded interface, a cost-effective mobile solution, and more efficiency, speed and automation at every step of the process.

Now the field reps spend less time doing inspections, and the company has greater insight into the performance of their products and can better identify opportunities to replace outdated devices or determine if a customer needs to upgrade or expand their equipment

All for about half the price of a custom-built software solution. That's the power of collaboration, the power of data, and the power of Formyula.
